THE GREAT CARUSO IS NOT "AFRAID"

It Must Be So, for the Noted Singer Defies His Black Hand Enemies.

Declares He Will Slay Like Dogs Those Who Wrote Threatening Letters.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Enrico Caruso, who is known for a great many things. NEW YORK March 6.—Enrico Caruse, who is known for a great many things, among them his singing, declared today that he did not fear the Black Hand, that the agents of the dreaded Sletlian band had better be careful and that he bought a sword cane, two pistols and a bowie knife to defend himself if the terrorists attempted to make good their threats upon his life in lieu of $15,000.

While the great Enrico was breathing flery threats, clad in a pink dressing gown, two alleged Black Hand agents. Antonio Cincincota and Antonio Mislana, were being held in bonds by Magistrate Dooley until detectives can investigate their records. Technically the men are held on a vagrancy charge, but the police will try to fasten the Black Hand threats upon them.

The famous tenor was found in his pink bath suit at the Knickerbocker hotel, scanning an artillery catalogue. Two revolvers lay upon his dressing table. His sword cane stood for action nearby, and the bowle knife glittered eminously. Breathes Forth Threats.

Breathes Forth Threats.

"Cowards! Curs!" shouted that golden voice. "They think to scare the great Caruso. Ha? The fools! I laugh at them. See, I snap my finger! I cry, Ho, ho! Ho, ho!

"Ah, but I shall split them upon my sword cane. I will fill them full of bullets from my revolvers. I will rend them with my knife. Dogs that they are! They will die if they attempt to separate Caruso from his money.

Caruso was splendid. Never before not even upon the stage of the Metropolitan Opera house, had he been seen in this heroic role. Laughing and waving his arms, he danced about his apartments lunging at imaginary adversaries, pouring broadsides from his pistols into the unseen prostrate forms and finishing ap artistically with the knife.

"The great Caruso will sing in Brooklyn on Monday night," continued the hero. "Ave Caruso will beard the dogs in their den. He does not fear to enter the vipers' nest.

"Ventre de Beelzebub, how Caruso should like to meet the fiends! Ah! Gr-r-r-t' Caruso will shoot them down like files. Like cats he will slay them.

Assistant Superintendent of Police O'Leary, who has been practically in charge of the police since the strike began, was pleased today at the situation. Regarding the letters and telegrams commending its stand received from employers of labor in all parts of the country made public by the Rapid Yransit company. W. D. Mahon, international president of the carmen's union, made this statement.

"The Philadelphia Rapid Transit company, in making public through President Kruger, telegrams from associations of manufacturers and employers all over the country approving the stand of the company against arbitration and offering assistance in its fight against organized labor, disclose the real issue in this contest. The presentation of these telegrams was no surprise to me. I am somewhat surprised, however, that the aillied interests are so willing publicly to show their hand. allied interests are so willing publicly to show their hand.

Capital Against Labor.

"The Rapid Transit company, with its allied interests, has declared a sympathetic strike of capital against labor. This is what these telegrams mean. The carmen's union did not go on strike. Its members were locked out as the result of a well-laid plan to crush labor in this city.

BACK TO THE FARM, JOHN D.'S SLOGAN

Clean-Cut Outline of Great Plan to Be Worked Out by the Foundation.

CONGESTED CENTERS OF POPULATION OUR MENACE

America Must Raise More Wheat if Progress Is to Be Continued.

NEW YORK, March 6-The most im portant function of the great Rocke-feller foundation, which the national government has been asked to charter, will be to place on a straightforward will be to place on a straightforward business basis the "back to the farm" movement. While this does not come from Mr. Rockefeller, himself, I am informed by men close to him that he and his son, who will probably have the active management of the foundation, are convinced that in this movement lies the solution of many of the most pressing problems that confront modern society. And now Mr. Rockefeller, through his foundation is going to work with the same keen business judgment which has made him the richest man in the world, to get results in this way.

his way.

Mr. Rockefeller's philanthropic ain is stupendously broad, and you may be sure that it will not miss anything making for the material welfare of the making for the material welfare of the country. His career as a business man argues that. He would admit, were he asked, that he regards material wealth as the foundation upon which civilization must rest. Educational and moral progress would halt without it. It is certain then that American problems will be the foundation that will aid in a country those relating to greation and solving those relating to creation and maintenance of wealth—not of individ-ual fortunes, but of general prosperity with a much higher average of in-dividual wealth.

Solution of Great Problem.

Among these problems none appeal to Mr. Rockefeller with more force than the one which is presented by the slogan. "Back to the farm." The farm is primal source of wealth, the support of all industries. But the growing trouble in our country is that our agricultural resources lack development for the dor

It is estimated that by about the middle of the present century the country's population will be 200,000,000. How are these millions to be fed? It will require, unless we are to fall to a lower scale of living, at least 1,300,000,000 bushels of wheat for our bread supplies. Twice only in our history has the annual vield exceeded 700,000,000 bushels. The increase in the vield since 1888 has been only a little more than 25 per cent, while the increase in population has been over 63 per cent. Meanwhile cities and towns have become congested and the trades.

Don't question the motives of those who, having sinned are trying to show by their actions that they have turned over a new leaf.

From the rules of conduct of his own life laid down by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. and from the maxims given mostly in addresses to the Bible class of which he was long the leader, a more intimate knowledge of the character of the man may be learned than in any other way. Here are a few:

Modern methods should be employed, even at the expense of the few.

The most successful men can be should be, and are the most successful Christian men.

Success comes by doing the common, everyday things of life uncommonly well. There are three chief requisites for a successful man. The first is honesty, and the third is perseverance. It is no exime to accumulate wealth, provided it was attained by honest and proper means, but it is a crime to devote it to an improper use.

The moral order of the universe will be maintained regardless of the individual power of any one man. Be honest in business, if even it doesn't pay from a financial standpoint.
